

Responsive comfort

Overview

Verve™ foam provides a bouncy, buoyant feel – similar to latex – combined with a high level of durability. The unique properties of this responsive foam help to relieve pressure from the heavier parts of the body like the head, shoulders and hips. It's open cell structure provides a high level of breathability, helping to dissipate heat and moisture from the body for a more comfortable sleeping temperature.

Benefits

- Responsive, bounces back
- Provides a weightless, unsinkable feeling
- Breathable open cell structure for better temperature management
- Scientifically tested for long-lasting durability and comfort
- Environmentally friendly VPF™ technology
- CertiPUR-US® certified

The superior properties of FXI specialty bedding foams are largely a result of the patented VPF™ manufacturing technology, or Variable Pressure Foaming. This proprietary process uses an enclosed chamber to maintain constant atmospheric conditions, delivering a consistently high quality, perfectly formed product with every run. In addition to producing best in class foam, VPF protects our environment with virtually zero emissions, completely eliminating CFCs and other blowing agents that can be harmful.

FXI Home Furnishings Innovations
fxi.com

Enhanced Pressure Relief

Innerspring mattress vs. same mattress with 3" Verve™ topper placed on top

Weightless, buoyant feeling

Resilient and responsive

About FXI

FXI is a leading producer of foam innovation in the Bedding, Furniture, Industrial, Home & Office, Healthcare and Transportation Markets. Our focus is on finding tailored solutions for our customers that are driven by consumer insights and industry trends. Our products include finished goods, sub-assemblies, services and raw materials for OEMs, fabricators and retailers. You will find FXI's foam innovations inside, around and under yourself in countless applications. We protect automobile passengers on the highway, help consumers sleep sounder and furniture manufacturers create comfort. We provide for sharper images in digital printers and help consumers keep their homes clean. We provide critical components for filters, gaskets and seals in everything from blood oxygenators to computer disk drives. Everywhere foam goes; FXI's innovations lead the way.